Briſtol, May 9.

THIS City having ſome Days ſince ſent a Deputation from their Body to Bath, to congratulate her Royal Highneſs the Princeſs Amelia on her Arrival in theſe Parts, to wiſh her a perfect Recovery of her Health, and alſo to deſire ſhe would be pleaſed to honour this City with her Preſence, they received Notice Yeſterday, that her Royal Highneſs intended to come by Water this Day. Upon which immediate Orders were given to make all the Preparations poſſible on ſo ſhort a Warning, that they might in the beſt Manner ſhew their Duty and Loyalty, and Joy for the Honour intended them.

Her Royal Highneſs accordingly came by Water, attended by ſeveral Barges with Muſick. Her Royal Highneſs was accompanied by the Lady Pomfret, with the Dutchels of Rutland and the Lady Frances Manners: Her Royal Highneſs landed between Eleven and Twelve, the Mayor, Aldermen and Corporation in their Scarlet Gowns attending to receive her, with ſeveral of the neighbouring Gentlemen of the Country, at a handſome Stage covered with Scarlet built at the Place of landing, a Guard of Lord Tyrawley's Regiment attending. Upon her landing 21 Guns were fired. Her Royal Highneſs's Chair was ready to receive her, as likewiſe her own Coaches. The Mayor and whole Corporation walked before her Chair, and conducted her thro' the principal Streets, where the Houſes were all adorned with rich Carpets, Scarlet Cloth, &c. to the Houſe of Alderman Day, in the Great Square, provided for her Royal Highneſs's Reception. After reſting ſome little Time, her Royal Highneſs admitted the Mayor and Corporation, and the Town Clerk congratulated her Royal Highneſs on her Arrival; and they all had the Honour to kiſs her Hand. Immediately after, the Dean of Briſtol and the Clergy were preſented, and the Dean congratulated her Royal Highneſs on her Arrival. Next the Commander of Lord Tyrawley's Regiment preſented his Officers, and the Collector the Officers of the Revenue.

Soon after, her Royal Highneſs took her own Coach, and proceeded through Queen-Square to ſee the Key of Briſtol, where were near 100 Sail of Ships all adorned with their Colours; thence to the College-Green and the Cathedral, and from thence came back to the Merchants Hall, where all the Ladies of the Town were aſſembled, and the Mayor and Corporation. Her Royal Highneſs walked up between them, and being ſeated in the uppermoſt Room in a Chair of State, Mrs. Mayoreſs was preſented, and afterwards all the reſt of the Ladies, who had the Honour to kiſs her Hand. From thence her Royal Highneſs went to Mr. Alderman Day's to dine privately, as ſhe had deſired; where the Lords and others who attended her Royal Highneſs, were likewiſe entertained. A little after Four, her Royal Highneſs ſet out for the Water Side to take Boat, being attended by the Mayor and Corporation, with loud Wiſhes for her Safety from Crowds of People on the Banks; and returned ſafe to Bath. There never appeared a more univerſal Joy and Satisfaction, than her Royal Highneſs's moſt gracious and affable Behaviour gave to all Perſons. The Churches were all adorned with Streamers; the Bells continually ringing; the Ships firing; not a Street or Alley but the Houſes were adorned with Flowers and Green Boughs.

The Corporation returned from her Royal Highneſs's Imbarkation to the Merchants Hall; where a magnificent Entertainment was prepared for the Ladies, which ended in a Ball that laſted very late: And nothing was omitted to teſtify the Satisfaction and Joy the City had in the Honour of this Viſit.

And to five private Bills.

And then his Excellency was pleased to make a Speech to both Houses of Parliament, which is as followeth.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

IT gives me great Satisfaction at my coming to put an End to this Session of Parliament, that I can observe to you, all the publick Bills transmitted from hence, have been returned under the Great Seal of Great Britain; this distinguishing Instance of His Majesty's Regard for you, is one of the happy Effects of that remarkable Application and Unanimity which have appeared in all your Proceedings.

His Majesty's gracious Condescention in departing from His own Right, by lessening His hereditary Revenue for the Ease of the Subject, and the Encouragement of Trade, shews His Royal Concern for the Welfare and Happiness of this Kingdom, and, together with many other signal Marks of His Majesty's Goodness, must convince us, that His Majesty has nothing more at Heart than the Interest and Prosperity of His People.

The Foundations laid for the Encrease of Tillage, so necessary in this Country; the new Advantages given for the Improvement of the Linnen Manufactures; the Care taken for regulating the Assize of Bread; the establishing a Fund for the Work-House, and for employing the Poor in this populous City; the Relief given to unfortunate Debtors; the Regulation made for future Elections; the reducing your Parliamentary Priviledges for the Ease and Benefit of your Fellow-Subjects; and those other excellent Laws now passed, for erecting Churches where they are most wanted; for the better Maintenance of the Clergy, and for preserving and strengthning the Protestant Interest of this Kingdom, will, I persuade myself, be so many memorable Instances of the Worth, Honour and Wisdom of this Parliament.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I am commanded by His Majesty to return you Thanks for the Supplies, which in the most chearful Manner you have unanimously given for the Support of the Establishment, and for proceeding in the Measures the late House of Commons had begun, effectually to enable His Majesty to continue the Forces in such a Condition, as may contribute to disappoint all Attempts of His Enemies.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The publick Business being now over, and your own Affairs calling you to your several Coun-

Countries, I can make no Doubt, but you will, in your respective Stations, exert yourselves in promoting His Majesty's Service, with the same Zeal and Spirit which you have shewn in the Course of this Session, and which so highly becomes a People truly sensible of the Happiness they enjoy under His Majesty's most gracious Government.

I think myself obliged at this Time, when Corn bears so excessive a Rate, to recommend to your particular Care, the preventing all Abuses of Forestallers and others which may enhance the Price of it, to the Detriment of the Kingdom, and the Oppression of the Poor.

Nothing could be more acceptable to me, than to find by the Addresses of both Houses, that my Endeavours for the publick Service have been to your Satisfaction: The many Marks of Loyalty and Affection which you have shewn to His Majesty's Sacred Person and Royal Family, during my Administration, lay me under the highest Obligations to promote the Good of this Kingdom upon all Occasions to the utmost of my Power; and I shall, on my Return into His Majesty's Presence, make a faithful Representation to His Majesty of your most loyal and dutiful Behaviour.

Then the Lord Chancellor declared, That it was his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Pleasure, that this Parliament be prorogued to Tuesday the Fourth Day of June next: And the Parliament was accordingly prorogued to Tuesday the Fourth Day of June next.

Whitehall, May 14.
